

New York is the most ethnically diverse city in the United States. According to the 2000 census, 36 percent of the city's population is foreign born. There are over 120 languages being spoken. The Police Department recognizes this and takes measures to assure that all persons regardless of immigrant status are treated with the same Courtesy, Professionalism and Respect.

Mission

Build and maintain relationships with community leaders and organizations in new immigrant communities.

Coordinate with other police departments, bureaus and city agencies to address specific community concerns.

Structure

Liaisons are assigned to newer immigrant communities in which to enhance outreach.

Our Liaisons speak different languages to enhance the relationship between the immigrant communities and the police department.

Liaisons are assigned to the following communities:

- *Arab/Muslim
- *Asian
- *Eastern European
- *Hispanic
- *South Asian
- *West African

Objectives

Initiate programs that enhance the relationship between the immigrant communities and the police

Initiate programs that address the needs and concerns of the immigrant communities

Encourage participation in community programs

Reduce fear by establishing open lines of communication and encourage dialogue

Educate the newer immigrant communities on Rights and Responsibilities
