The Department of Parks announces the completion of a new playground at 20th Avenue from 47th to 48th Streets, Borough of Queens.

Located in the Astoria section of Queens, on land acquired in part by an exchange of property between the Untermeyer Estate and the City of New York, this new recreational area will furnish much needed recreational facilities for this rapidly developing neighborhood.

Separate, completely equipped play areas have been provided for the little tots of pre-school age and for the older children. There is also a sand pit, a wading pool for hot summer days and a comfort station. Shuffleboard courts, basketball courts, volley ball courts, handball courts and a large general play area have been provided for older children.

Numerous benches have been provided throughout the development for guardians of children and the borders of the improvement and separate units have been landscaped profusely with shade trees.

The addition of this new play area brings the total in the park system to 508.

will open the second half of the Name Band Dance series in grand style. These dances, fifty-four in all, are sponsored annually by the Consolidated Edison Company, and they have proved the most popular summertime attraction to be conducted by the Department of Parks.

With the Blue Barron orchestra appearing for a three day engagement, Name Band Dance fans will dance under the stars to music "out of the top drawer of the nation's musical chest". Blue Barron will provide delightful hours for his less active fans too, his soft and sweet music being easy on the listener's eardrums. Betty Clark and Don Burke, his featured vocalists, plus contributions by "Cheerful" Charlie Fisher, Jimmy McDonald, and The Three Blue Notes, give promise of festive evenings, next Monday at Ocean Parkway and Avenue P Playground in Brooklyn; Tuesday evening at Jackson Heights Playground, 84th Street and 25th to 30th Avenues, Queens; and on Wednesday night at Poe Park, 192nd Street and Grand Concourse in the Bronx. All dances start at 8:30 P.M.

Charlie Peterson returns for a second engagement on this summer's series, giving Manhattanites an opportunity to dance to his "smooth rhythm" orchestra on Thursday evening at the Mall in Central Park. Brooklyn dancers too, will have the privilege of dancing to, or only listening to Charlie Peterson's inimitable dance tunes on Friday evening at Prospect Park Dance Area, Prospect Park West and 11th Street.

The public is invited by the Consolidated Edison Company and the Department of Parks, to make a date for at least one evening this week to enjoy this exceptional array of musical entertainment.

Misc.-20M-92347 ____114 Entertaining youngsters in New York City parks is as easy for Peter Pan, the Department of Parks Magic Man, as pulling rabbits out of a hat, and, for a magician, that is elementary, as everyone knows. However, none of Peter's performances would be complete from the standpoint of his young fans unless he includes the trick at every show. Old or new, all of his feats of magic have great entertainment value that is evinced by the gales of laughter or the stillness that falls over the audience at the culmination of a trick. Brooklyn youngsters will watch for the appearance of Peter Pan at five park playgrounds where he will give morning and afternoon performances this week, as follows:

The Department of Parks Marionette Trailer Theatre will continue its tour of Brooklyn during the coming week, giving nine performances of the "Marionette Circus" at neighborhood Park Department playgrounds.

This marionette prototype of a three ring circus captures the essence of its sawdust counterpart as its buffoonish clowns and energetic acrobats acquit themselves with dash and abandon, and the magician performs with fine flourish. The novelty acts contributed by a tight rope walker, a Jack-in-the box, and the pianist and singer are climaxed by a dance routine in which a line of twelve chorines known as the "Parkettes", exhibit remarkable precision. Credit for this excellent production goes to a group of Park Department playground directors who have developed their hobby to a point where their skill in making marionettes and costumes, building sets and scenery, and the efficiency of their manipulation can meet professional standards.

Youngsters unable to leave the city during the summer months should not be allowed to miss this splendid entertainment treat, which may be seen at the Brooklyn playgrounds listed below, this week. There is no charge for admission.

The fifth week of Name Band Dances sponsored by the Consolidated Edison Company and conducted by the Department of Parks will be highlighted by the music of two stars in the galaxy of "name" dance band leaders - Freddie Slack and Gene Williams.

Freddie Slack vaulted to the top on the strength of several great records: "Con Con Boogie", "Beat Me Daddy, Eight to the Bar" and "Mr. Five by Five". Music critics refer to his solo on "Beat Me Daddy, Eight to the Bar" as one of the best piano bits in the history of popular music. These recordings accounted for the rapid success of the embryo firm known as Capitol Records. The Slack star is firmly fixed in the musical firmanent as his busy schedule indicates - personal appearances, recordings, and motion picture assignments. Freddie Slack and his orchestra will play for the first three dances this week, appearing at Bushwick Playground, Knickerbocker and Putnam Avenues, Brooklyn, on Monday evening; Tuesday evening at Victory Field, Myrtle Avenue and Woodhaven Boulevard, Queens; and at Poe Park, 192nd Street and Grand Concourse, Bronx, on Wednesday evening. Featured vocalists are Trudy Richards and Maynard Sloate.

Mr. Young America, Gene Williams, whose individual star in the dance band field is just rising, will play for the Thursday evening dance at the Mall in Central Park, and Friday evening at Prospect Park Dance Area, Prospect Park West and 11th Street, Brooklyn. Williams' career as a band leader has been short, but most successful, due in part to his long years of experience with Johnny Long, Bobby Sherwood, Vincent Lopez and Claude Thornhill. Williams features Ethyl Shell as vocalist.

Each evening this week, in conjunction with the Name Band Dances sponsored by the Consolidated Edison Company, the Edison Post American Legion Drum and Bugle Corps will give a concert and demonstration starting at 8 P.M.

The corps of fifty-six members, a drum majorette, and a color guard of six, has been trained and directed by Mr. Leonard B. Hartman. The drum majorette, 15 year old Dorothy Weigand of the Bronx, was the winner of the Junior National Twirling Championships held at St. Paul last February, and she holds fifty-seven other state and national twirling honors.

The Name Band Dances, now in the fifth week of this summer's schedule, will be held each weekday evening, Monday through Friday, and this week, will begin immediately following the conclusion of the drum and bugle corps program.

The Monday, July 19th, dance will be held at Colonial Park, 146th Street and Bradhurst Avenue, Manhattan, with "Hot Lips" Page and his orchestra providing the music. The Page Orchestra, popular with Name Band Dance fans because of its fast, snappy style, always draws a large attendance of enthusiastic dancers.

Charlie Peterson will play for the next two evenings, Tuesday, July 20th, at Jackson Heights Playground, 84th Street and 25th to 30th Avenues, Queens, and at Poe Park, 192nd Street and Grand Concourse, Bronx, on Wednesday evening, July 21st. The Department of Parks has scheduled ten performances by Peter Pan the Magic Man, at neighborhood Park playgrounds in Manhattan and Brooklyn, this week. Peter Pan's Magic shows, a year-round feature of the Park Department's recreation program, are highly recommended as entertainment for youngsters by parents and educators alike. Being an educator himself, Peter Pan sugar coats lessons on health, good citizenship and safety with his tricks with such finesse that his young audiences eat up the moral as well as the entertainment. Audience participation is Peter's greatest attraction and the children clamor to be selected to assist him in his performances.

This week's Magic shows will be given as follows:

Nine performances of the "Marionette Circus" will highlight the activities at five Department of Parks playgrounds in Brooklyn this week. The new trailer theatre which houses the presentation was designed especially for the exhibition of puppet shows, and the trailer's improved sound system and backstage conveniences lend smoothness to the performances, thereby increasing audience pleasure in the presentation.

The Department of Parks Marionette Troupe has used an imaginative treatment in their portrayal of a circus. Scenery built to scale adds to the illusion of a life-sized "Big Top" as the miniature acrobats and clowns go through their acts. A bevy of twelve marionette dancers performs with precision second only to the Rockettes. A tight rope walker, magician, Jack-in-the Box, and a piano player and singer complete the cast.

This diverting entertainment may be seen this week at the following Department of Parks playgrounds in Brooklyn.

The Department of Parks announces the completion of work on and the opening of four new parking fields adjacent to the Rockaway Beach Boardwalk, at Beach 32nd. 52nd, 64th, and 69th Streets. The four fields have a total capacity of 1,000 cars and will relieve to a great extent the fire and panic hazards resulting from parking Edjacent to the boardwalk and will provide off street parking space for patrons to the beach and local residents. They will be operated for free public usage from 8 A.M. to 12 midnight. Starting Friday night, July 2nd, the Police will hang tag Summanas on all cars still remaining in these fields after 12 midnight.

The dovelopment of these parking areas, funds for which were provided in the 1948 Capital Budget, is another stage in the improvement of seventeen parcels between Beach 9th Street and Beach 71st Street, which are to be assigned to the Department of Parks to provide for beach improvement. The entire project will cost approximately $6,500,000.

The ultimate development, which will continue to be carried on in stages, will include paddle tennis and handball courts, playgrounds containing apparatus and games areas, softball diamonds, sitting areas and parking fields for 2,000 cars. For this purpose the Dopartment will request the allocation of $580,000. in the 1949 Capital Budget. It is expected that the completion of these facilities will relieve some of the confusion and overcrowding adjacent to the boardwalk particularly weekends and holidays.

The further reconstruction of the boardwalk which started a few years ago continues between Beach 73rd Street and Boach 85th Street, and east of Beach 33rd Stroet. This work costing $200,000. consists of the removal of unsafe sections of the wood decking and supporting beams, the reconstruction with crossoted beams and :alt-treated Douglas Fir decking, and incidental work such as the resetting of July 1, 1948. 52 benches, drinking fountains, railing and lamp posts.

NATIVE HOLLIES GIVEN TO THE CITY

The Department of Parks announces an anonymous gift of $1,000 for the improvement of Jacob Riis Park. The letter accompaning the gift reads as follows:

"Enclosed please find check for $1,000.00 for the benefit of Riis Park Bathing Beach. Please do not acknowledge it; you couldn't anyway, because I'm not giving my address, well anyway I've enjoyed the park so much that I would like to do something for it-in a breezy natural way-hence no acknowledgement."

After some thought we have decided to use this contribution for the purchase and planting of native holly trees. The Christmas holly (Hex opaca) and Inkberry, the small leaved holly (Hex Glabra) will be planted at the south end of the Mall, flanking the west entrance to the beach and boardwalk. Other native shore front plants, to entreme and protect the native hollies will include bayberry (Myrica pensylvanica) beach plum (prunus maritima) and the favorite ground cover of beach patrons bear berry (Arctosoaphylos uva-ursi).

One of the lasting impressions carried away by the visitor to the outer beaches of Fire Island, particularly at Point O'Woods, is the variety and beauty of the native plants, including hollies, back of the dunes where they are protected from the drying winds which sweep over the beaches in the winter, Some of the Christmas Hollies have attained a diameter near the base of fifteen inches or more. The height is always governed by the height of the protective dunes between the trees and the ocean.

The protected location in which the hollies will be planted at Jacob Riis will assure their normal growth to maturity even in the face of winter blasts and hurricanes, but only to the height of the protective shelters at the beach which in this case are the concession building and the massed planting around the hollies.

The native hollies, particularly Ilex opaca, have rapidly disappeared with the destruction of the native flore with which they are associated in their natural habitat.

In establishing this planting of one of our most interesting and beautiful plants our anonymous donor has rendered a fine service to the park system.

A bronze plaque will be placed adjacent to the planting to record this act of generosity.

Department of Parks Square Dances become a weekly feature at Jacob Riis Park in Queens this summer when the first dance is held at 8:30 P.M. on Wednesday, June 30th, and every Wednesday evening thereafter until August 25. They will be held at the Dance Area located in the central portion of the boardwalk at Riis Park.

The revival of square dencing, which is taking place all over our country, gains added momentum as beginners learn how much fun it is to take part in these traditional American square dences. The Department of Parks has fostered the rebirth of this type of dancing in New York City, and, with the Riis Park series, extends the opportunity of participation to the multitudes who visit Riis Park.

The caller for this series will be Miss Betty Palumbo, former Wave lieutenant and protege of Ed Durlacher who for the past few years has been calling for square dances at Riverside Drive, Central Park, and Prospect Park. The music will be provided by Ed. Durlacher's Square Dance Band. Newcomers, young and old, will be able to keep in step after a few brief instructions from Miss Palumbo. There is no charge for admission, and the public is invited to attend these seaside dances where fun for the entire family will be the keynote of the evening.

New York City is a Mecca for all vacationers, native New Yorkers

as well as the countless visitors who are drawn by the great variety of attractions
the city has to offer. Not the least of these attractions are the recreational facilities of the Department of Parks, all of which are ready to cater to the recreation preferences of all ages of people. The New York City Park Department has kept pace with popular demand on the part of the public by providing equipment and space for the increasing variety of activities which a modern public park system must accommodate. Everything in this category, from archery to zoos, is available in New York City parks.

Swimming, naturally, is the most popular summertime sport, and the attractive 17 outdoor park pools and the six park beaches, which are located in the five boroughs, invite an ever-increasing attendance. Last year more than seventy-five and a half million people found relief from the heat at these aquatic cases. The moderate fees charged - 25 cents for lockers and 50 cents for dressing rooms at the beaches, and at all pools the admission fee is 9 cents for children under 12 years of age and 26 cents for all other persons, plus the fact that there is a free period from 10 to 12:30 each morning, Monday through Saturday, makes it possible for all to enjoy the use of public bathing facilities.

The time-honored custom of listening to concerts in the park gains added enthusiasts each year because of the expanding opportunities provided by the Park Department. There is something going on at the Mall in Central Park each evening. After 31 consecutive years, the Daniel and Florence Guggenheim Memorial Concerts, given by the Goldman Band under the direction of Edwin Franko Goldman, need no publicizing to the music lovers of New York City. These concerts may be heard at 8:30 P.M. each Sunday, Monday, Wednesday, and Friday on the Mall in Central Park. On Thursday and Saturday evenings, the Goldman Band plays for Brooklynites at the Prospect Park Music Grove. The Guggenheim series will continue until September 15th. The City Amateur Symphony, conducted by Hon. Leopold Prince, will give concerts at the Mall on Saturday evenings, July 3rd, 10th, 17th, and 24th, at 8:15 P.M. The annual Naumburg Memorial Concerts, given in memory of Mr. Elkan Naumburg who donated the Band Shell on the Mall, will be heard there on July 4th, July 31st, and September 6th, starting at 8:15 P.M.

The popular Name Band Dances, a series of 54 sponsored by the Consolidated Edison Company, begin on the Mall on Thursday evening, June 24th. Top notch dance bands provide the music for these weekday evenings of dancing, under the stars, which on Tuesday evenings alternate between Victory Field and Jackson Heights Playground in Queens, and which will be held every Wednesday evening at Poe Park in the Bronx, each Thursday night at the Mall in Central Park, and Friday evenings at the Frospect Park Dance Area in Brooklyn. Monday evening dances will be given at various locations in the boroughs. Last year a half million Name Band Dance fans participated in this pleasant form of nocturnal recreation.

Square dancing, indigenous to our country, has in recent years made a successful comeback, losing its rural setting but none of its rustic flavor, under the sponsorship of the Pepsi-Cola Company. This summer's series, already attracting large crowds, began on June 14th, and will continue until September 15th, with sessions held Monday evenings at Riverside Drive and 105th Street, Manhattan; Tuesday evenings at the Mall in Central Park; and Wednesday nights at the Prospect Park Dance Area in Brooklyn. All dances start at 8:30 P.M., with Ed Durlacher and his Top Hands providing the calling and the music for the colorful squares and figures. Ed's masterful directions make it easy for beginners to get into the swing of things and soon they can dos-a-dos and allemande along with the old timers.

In addition to the beaches and pools, the Park Department has 507 neighborhood playgrounds equipped with 6000 swings, 1700 sec-saws, 1000 handball courts, 600 shuffleboard courts, 450 paddle termis courts, 350 horseshoe pitching courts, 400 basketball courts, 300 jungle gyms, 200 sandpits, and 188 wading pools. These playgrounds providing both active and passive recreational opportunities for young and old, are under the direct supervision of a permanent staff of 420 trained Playground Directors, a staff which is augmented by 300 additional temporary summer recreation personnel, to take care of the expanded summertime activity program, and to provide for extended hours of operation. While the demand for the use of the Park Department's 309 softball and 151 baseball diamonds for exceed the supply, periods are still available to take care of a reasonable number of teams at most of these locations. Teen-agers may find special areas set aside for model yachting, kite flying, model airplane flying, as well as bicycle paths in the larger parks and along the parkways. A number of organized tournaments for boys and girls will be conducted by the Park Department. These include a softball competition open to boys 14, 15, 16, and 17 years of age, for which entries close on July 2nd; a track meet for Queens' youngsters at Astoria Park on August 8th; twelve swimming meets for boys up to 19 years of age and girls up to 17 years of age, will be held at outdoor pools in the five boroughs. Championship events scheduled for these meets are sanctioned by the Metropolitan Association, A.A.U., and are open to swimmers registered with that organization. Municipal Tennis and Golf Championships, to be conducted this summer are open to junior boys, men, and women, play starting in mid-July. A summerlong Learn-To-Swim Campaign for boys and girls up to 14 years of age, gets under way at all 17 outdoor park pools during the free period for youngsters, on July 6th. Summertime finds the 10 Park Department golf courses, which are among the finest municipal courses in the country, teeming with activity from morning until dusk. The Knickerbocker Golf Tournament will be held in late summer on these courses. 508 termis courts in the five boroughs, afford recreation for net fans, for the modest fee of $3.00 for a season permit. Adults may spend many pleasant hours on bridle paths, bowling greens, bocci courts, or in fishing at 32 designated areas in the city. Entire families may plan outings at the 19 Park Department picnic areas which are equipped with fire places, tables, and benches; or at the Manhattan, Bronx, Brooklyn, or Richmond zoos.

With such an extensive variety of facilities and equipment, New Yorkers can find recreation and relaxation without leaving the city, or they may supplement their out-of-town vacations by spending extra hours in the sun and fresh air in the New York City parks.

ARTICLE FOR THE STATEN ISLAND ADVANCE 1948 ANNUAL BUSINESS EDITION

This Golden Jubilee year is an excellent time to turn back the pages of history and look at the developments in the City park system since 1898. Fifty years ago, at the dawn of the twentieth century, when on January 1st, 1898, the City of Brooklyn, all of Staten Island, and what is now Queens County, became part of the City, they had a population of over 3,000,000 and covered nearly 200,000 acres.

The Park Board, consisting of Commissioners Clausen, Brower and Moebus, in their annual report for the year 1898, informed the Hon. Robert A. Van Wyck, the first Mayor of the City of Greater New York, that there were 155 parks, small gores and roadways, both developed and undeveloped in the newly created city. They totaled 6,919.5 acres in area, ranging in size from the 0.001 acre Pelham Bay Park in the Bronx. Park roads, and the then so-called parkways, were designed for horse-drawn vehicles. The best of them, Ocean and Eastern Parkways in Brooklyn, were surfaced with Hudson River gravel and screenings which had to be continuously rolled, sprinkled and repaired. effect of heavy traffic made expensive repairs constantly necessary, and in wet weather the roads were a sea of mud. Bronx and Pelham, and Mosholu Parkways in the Bronx, and Shore Road in Brooklyn were under construction. The Harlem River Driveway in Manhattan, upon which horses could be driven without restriction as to speed, was also under construction.

Page 2. Below 59th Street, at the present Bryant Park site, plans were being prepared for the removal of the Forty-second Street Reservoir and the building of foundations for the New Public Library. Lack of funds had prevented the improvement of Hamilton Fish Park and Seward Park although the site was cleared of buildings. Hudson Park, on the site of the old St. John's Cemetery, was opened for public usage in 1898. In other older downtown parks, such as Battery, City Hall and Bowling Green, work was restricted to maintenance, clearing and repairs. Recreational activities in the parks were confined chiefly to bicycling, concerts, picnics, baseball, lawn tennis and croquet, with the latter two by far the most popular. However, there was a definite demand at that time for playgrounds as we know them today. It is interesting to note that new construction by the department during 1898 was interrupted and delayed by lack of funds even though there was an immediate serious need for the expansion of the park system. This was caused by the constitutional limitation of the City's borrowing capacity, particularly affected new work in the Borough of Manhattan, and was similar to the situation in which the City finds itself today. Another paragraph in their report reads as follows: PARKS IN RICHMOND BOROUGH "A study of the Staten Island Park situation resulted only in the discovery of two small pieces of park property, neither of which had sufficient area to make it important or presented any such advantage as that of water-front. Nothing could be done with them beyond providing labor to care for the grass and trees and keep them clean. An important park proposition was presented in the legislation creating a commission to condemn Silver Lake Park for public uses. In March an inquiry was made of the Corporation Counsel to ascertain whether the Park Commissioner for the Boroughs of Manhattan and Richmond, under the provisions of Section 616 of the Charter, had any jurisdiction over the park in question. The answer was that he had not, as title to the property was not vested in the County of Richmond prior to consolidation, and furthermore that the provisions of Chapter 434 of the Laws of 1897, relative to the vesting of this park in the County of Richmond, had not been complied with."

The two aforementioned small pieces of property were Washington Square at Bay, Water and Canal Streets, Stapleton; and Port Richmond Park, Broadway, Bennett Street, Huberton Avenue and Vreeland Street, Port Richmond. By 1902 these small squares were remodeled, provided with walks, lawns, lighting and drainage, and personnel was assigned to keep them in proper condition. By 1908 Silver Lake and Westerleigh Parks had been added to the Richmond list.

However, it remained until January 1934, for the five separate borough Park Departments, under the jurisdiction of five separate commissioners, to be consolidated by law into a single unit under one commissioner. This immediately permitted economies in operation, standardization of methods and equipment, expansion on city-wide rather than borough or local basis, and the establishment of proper relations with other city activities and improvements and State and County developments in the suburbs.

From 1934 to 1948, except during the war, there was a great and steady expansion in the number of parks and playgrounds, and a rapid extension of the parkway system. New York City, once far back in the field of municipal recreation and parkway improvements, took the lead among American cities. The new improvements were financed by the City, State and Federal funds, by contributions from the Triborough Bridge Authority, by gifts from private civic-minded citizens, and through the frugal use of relief labor and materials. Tompkinsville Swimming Pool and the Barrett Park Zoo in Richmond, are excellent examples of the prudent use of work relief efforts and construc-Landscaped recreational facilities were added to other public improvements with initial cost properly chargeable to these projects and not to parks. Refuse dumps and marsh lands were turned into parks, the former Marine Park, now known as Great Kills Park, ranking high on this list. New properties were acquired by gift, condemnation and transfer. Neglected neighborhood and historical parks and buildings were rehabilitated or redesigned and rebuilt. Children's playgrounds increased from 119 to 516, seventeen of which are in Richmond, a four hundred percent increase over 1934 figures. Neglected memorials of every description, form and size, subject to natural deterioration and vandalism, were restored and vehabilitated slowly and steadily by a small but competent group of artisans. New swimming pools were built so that today there are seventeen large outdoor modern pools and nine indoor pools and gymnasia. Coney Island, Rockaway and Jacob Riis Park beaches were rebuilt and modernized. Orchard Beach, with its extension, parking field and bath house, replaced a private tent colony in Pelham Bay Park. Eighty-three miles of parkways, with incidental playgrounds, waterfront promenades, bicycle paths and other recreational facilities were added to the park system.

Further expansion is still necessary to meet the continued pressure and demand for additional park and recreational facilities in the old denser populated neighborhoods and in the newly developed communities in the outlying sections. To meet this situation, we have planned the construction during the next two years of forty-four playgrounds, two of which will be in Richmond.

The current modest construction program for the years 1948 and 1949 will relieve to a slight extent the over-crowding at the existing beaches, such as Coney Island and Rockaway. It will also permit partial opening of Great Kills Beach on Staten Island along the shoreline of lower New York Harbor, where construction of the second stage of this improvement including roadways, parking fields, comfort stations and a maintenance building on the beach adjacent to the site of the future bath house, will be placed under construction this year.

The rehabilitation of older parks throughout the park system will continue as it has in the past.

Pier 6, better known as Cromwell Center, has been returned to the Park Department by the U.S. Navy and it will be re-opened as an improved recreation center next fall.

As to future expansion, plans prepared during the war as part of the Postwar Construction Program, will permit the further logical development of a park system designed to be adequate to meet the increasing needs of this growing city. High-lighting this list is the completion of the 1256-acre, waterfront Great Kills Park on Staten Island, a complicated fill job started years ago by the W.P.A. It will be patterned after Jones Beach, and will include a 10,000 foot bathing beach, boardwalk in back of the beach, boat basin, boathouse, playgrounds, bicycle paths, court games, dancing, roller skating and picnic areas, softball, hardball and baseball diamonds, an eighteen-hole pitch-putt golf course, comfort stations, food concessions and parking areas.

At Roosevelt Boardwalk and Beach, two new playgrounds and two parking areas are in the future program to provide for suitable parking and increased recreation. New playgrounds will be built adjacent to the South Beach Houses and Public Schools Nos. 49, 14 and 18. These will be operated jointly by the Board of Education and the Department of Parks so that the facilities will be open to the public at all times. Allison Park, adjacent to Sailors Snug Harbor will be redesigned and reconstructed.

At Conference House Park, additional land will be acquired to provide recreational facilities adjoining the present property.

The 12-acre Arthur Van Breisen Park, adjacent to Ft. Wadsworth and fronting on the Narrows, will be developed for park purposes.

The Barrett Park Zoo will be improved and enlarged with a Children's Zoo and the Staten Island Institute of Arts and Sciences will be rebuilt to provide additional exhibition and storage space.

Richmond and Willowbrook Parkways, the backbone of the future Richmond arterial system, about which much has been said in the local press for the past few years, are being worked out in close cooperation with the Office of the Borough President of Richmond. When completed, they will tie the Borough park system together and make accessible the many and various recreational facilities and provide through-scenic routes to the ferries. Both parkways will be built by the Park Department for through passenger traffic, without crossings at grade and traffic lights. They will have incidental play spaces and bicycling and pedestrian paths along their borders to serve the residents of the adjacent communities.

Both festivals will open with a mass procession as all the dancers parado around the green to form a giant horseshoe within which the children will perform. The State Department of Public Works has awarded a contract in the amount of $87,000 for the construction of twenty-six emergency turnouts for the parking of disabled automobiles on the Henry Hudson Parkway between 72 Street and the George Washington Bridge. All costs will be paid by the State with Federal aid. The work will be done by The Del Balse Construction Corporation of Brooklyn, and will start this spring.

The greater portion of the section of Henry Hudson Parkway below the George Washington Bridge is either on a viaduct or adjacent to sharply sloping ground or other structures with shoulders too narrow to permit motorist with disabled or crippled cars to pull off the pavement and out of moving lanes of traffic for repairs or to await for the arrival of a tow truck.

Generally the turnouts will be eighteen feet wide, seventy feet long from exit to entrance, and paved with stone blocks. They will be separated from the moving traffic by two feet wide concrete curbs and brick islands.

Twelve of the turnouts will be constructed along the southbound lane and fourteen along the northbound lane.

The spacing of these turnouts, designed to eliminate delays and serious traffic tie-ups will be close enough to determine their effectiveness as a substitute for a continuous shoulder to accommodate disabled cars. If they prove successful they will be installed on other city parkways where because of narrow right-of-way it was not possible to provide normal width shoulders.

Six basketball clinics will be conducted at Fark Department recreation centers in Manhattan, Brooklyn, Bronx and Queens during the next five weeks. These are the last of the series of twenty which were made possible through the cooperation of Ned Irish and the Madison Square Garden Knickerbockers. An average of 300 boys has turned out at each session to learn both the fundamental and the more advanced basketball techniques from the outstanding college stars who compose Coach Joe Lapchick's Knickerbocker squad.

Among the great stars who will conduct the six clinics will be Bud Palmer, Carl Braun, Stan Stutz, Sid Tannenbaum, Van Breda Kolff, Dick Holub, Tommy Byrnes, Lee Knorek, Ray Kuka and Paul Noel. By means of lectures, demonstrations and motion pictures, these players will teach the youngsters big league methods of passing, dribbling, setting up offensive and defensive plays, and the use of team signals. The enthusiastic reception given to the clinics is an indication of the healthy response on the part of the city's juveniles, to expert, constructive leadership and guidance in sports activities.

Sunday January 4, 1948.

More than 124,000,000 visits were made by adults and youngsters to the city's parks and playgrounds during 1947, an increase of eleven million over the record attendance of 1946. These figures reflect the ever-increasing demand on the part of New Yorkers for public recreational facilities within the metropolitan area. Of the forty-three activities carried on by the Park Department, beach and pool attendance again showed the greatest increase, seventy-five and a half million people finding relief from the heat during the summer months. Basketball and softball, stimulated by city-wide competitive contests, had an increase of 16,000,000 participants. The Park Department's varied facilities are designed to meet seasonal activities. 189 wading pools, in which two and a half million youngsters spleshed during July and August, resounded to the ringing steel of ice skates in the winter. Swimming pool buildings, converted into indoor recreation centers at the end of the summer offered opportunities for youngsters to engage in basketball, boxing and quiet recreational pursuits during the fall and winter months.

Despite a mild winter, park lakes, flooded areas and coasting end skiing hills were used by half a million winter sports enthusiasts. Softball and baseball held the center of the stage in the spring, continuing throughout the summer, and attracting more than two million boys and men to the national pastime. In the fall, these same fields drew another million and a half soccer and football players searching for healthful outdoor exercise. At other times of the year, special sports facilities such as archery ranges, bicycle paths, bridle paths, bowling greens, horseshoe pitching courts, golf courses, tennis and paddle tennis courts took care of the recreational needs of another three million citizens.

Flood lighting equipment made possible the use of facilities for enjoyable summer evening activities for many thousands of New Yorkers. Concerts by the concerts were heard by 500,000 in the various parks. Name Band Dances, sponsored by the Consolidated Edison Company, and the Papsi-Cola Square Dances entertained 800,000 during the summer months. Barber Shop Quartet and Harvest Dance Contests closed the summer season activities on a festive note. Youngsters received special attention through the tours of the Marionette and Magic troupes who entertained thousands of young followers in the playgrounds of the five boroughs.

A series of special contests and tournaments were featured all through the year, by thirty-two thousand children, young men and women, in the Learn to Swim Campaign, marbles contest, swimming meets for boys and girls, softball tournament, and the golf and tennis tournaments. These contests were witnessed by 300,000 spectators.

The cinder paths and athletic fields teemed with activity as 4,000 boys and girls participated in the five meets sponsored by the New York Athletic Club, two sponsored by the Kiwanis Club of Queens, and in the Junior Olympics at Randalls Island. A million mere youngsters practical and competed on the Park Department's 17 running tracks and 3 cross country courses during the year.

In addition to these colorful and exciting competitive sports, the Department of Parks provided a daily program of supervised activities to keep the city's youngsters engaged in healthful and educational play. Playground Directors taught arts and crafts, drama, dancing, gardening, athletics, games, and supervised the use of slides, swings, and other equipment in the 499 playgrounds of the Park Department system. Two thousand girls between the ages of six and sixteen learned to dance in neighborhood playgrounds and performed their colorful dances at festivals held in each of the five boroughs in August.

The Department of Parks is planning another calendar of activities for 1948, and January will usher in a city-wide basketball tournament, ice skating meets and a snow sculpturing contest, for all of which, entries are now being accepted stall neighborhood playgrounds.

The Department of Parks' annual Christmas holiday performances of marionette shows will be given daily at the Amphitheatre, East River Drive at Grand Street, Manhattan, from Sunday, December 26th, to Friday, December 31st. The shows are for children only, and there is no charge for admission. Of course, children too young to travel alone may bring along an adult.

The Park Department's Marionette Troup has selected three popular children's stories for their holiday repertoire: "Jack and the Beanstalk", "The Shoemaker and the Elves", and "Hansel and Gretel". Their version of Jack's adventures preserves all the fantasy of the original fable - the magic beanstalk that really grows before the eyes of the delighted youngsters, the Hen That Lays Golden Eggs, and the Magic Harp. "The Shoemaker and the Elves" - the story of a tired old man and the two funny elves, Longfellow and Shortfellow - is embellished by whimsical touches, such as, the array of shoes that dance by themselves. "Hansel and Gretel" is an exciting portrayal of the perenially favorite fairy tale. Packed with spinetingling adventures and magical spells, the play never fails to enchant its young audience.

The shows are scheduled as follows:

Sunday, December 26th

2 P.M "Jack and the Beanstalk"

Monday, December 27th

A male albino leopard, named Jinx, said to be the only one in captivity, has been presented to the Central Park Zoo by Janet Jarvis.

In addition to the albino leopard, which has fox red fur with light spots and pink eyes, Mr. Ernest G. Jarvis, president of Continental Copper and Steel Industries Co., Inc., has presented a spotted male leopard, named Ken, and a laughing hyena, both unusual because of their exceptionally large size.

Trapped in the wilds of Portuguese Africa, the animals were imported to this country by Henry Trefflich, 228 Fulton Street, New York City, and purchased by the Jarvises as their Christmas gift to the Central Park Zoo and the children of New York. Due to the recent difficulties at the piers, they were confined on board ship for two weeks and delayed in their transfer to the Central Park Zoo.

The animals will go on display Thursday, December 16th, at 11:00 A.M.

The Park Department announces that ceremonies in connection with the lighting of twenty-four Christmas trees, which have been erected and decorated in parks throughout the five boroughs, will take place on Friday, December 17th, at 5:00 P.M. A special program will be held at the principal trees in each borough; which will be at City Hall Park, Manhattan; Borough Hall Park, Brooklyn; Joyce Kilmer Park, the Bronx; Queensborough Hall, Kew Gardens, Queens; and Borough Hall, Richmond.

At City Hall Park, Manhattan, the ceremonies will be broadcast over Station WNYC. Mayor O'Dwyer will deliver his annual Christmas message and throw the switch lighting the sixty-foot high tree, officially starting New York's observance of the Yuletide season. Vincent R. Impellitteri, President of the City Council, and Borough President Hugo E. Rogers will also participate in the exercises. Selections will be played by the Department of Sanitation Band, and Christmas carols will be sung by the Police Department's Glee Club, and a boys' choir from Saint Vincent Ferrer Church.

Borough Presidents Cashmore, Lyons, Burke and Hall will light the trees in their respective boroughs, where exercises will be conducted under the borough Park Directors who have arranged appropriate programs.

When the Mayor throws the switch lighting the tree, he will also light a special decorative scheme depicting the Three Wise Men proceeding to the Star in the East, centered in a traditional red and green wreath, eighteen feet in diameter, over the main entrance of the Park Department Headquarters at the Arsenal, 64th Street and Fifth Avenue, Central Park, Manhattan. In keeping with the holiday spirit, Park Department gardeners made the wreath by ingenious use of simple, inexpensive materials, such as attractive holly, laurel, rich brown pine cones, moss, soft hemlock - the most graceful of all evergreens, and large clusters of Red Ruscus, more brilliant than holly berries. In all, there are 19,288 selected branches of various materials mounted on a wooden frame, braced and reinforced with 3/8 inch steel rods. The wreath weighs approximately two thousand pounds. The foliage across the frame is six feet wide and the depth of the foliage and filling from the face of the wreath to the base of the frame is over three feet.

The trees and the wreath will be lighted each evening from 4:30 P.M. until midnight, up to and including January 1, 1949.

Board of Estimate Municipal Building New York 7, N. Y.

Gentlemen:

I ask that the Board of Estimate consider the following and decide the future of Claremont Inn.

Claremont is a more or less famous landmark with some definite historic associations. It occupies a magnificent site closely associated with Grant's Tomb. Its hearly history is somewhat confused although it seems to have been first erected as a country mansion by George Pollock in 1783. He sold it in 1803 to Joseph Alston who lived in it only three years, selling it in 1806 to Nichael Hogan, formerly British Consul in Havana. The mansion was re-named Claremont by Hogan after Claremont in Surrey, England, the seat of the Duke of Clarence, who later became King William IV, with whom Hogan had served as a midshipman in the Royal Navy. In March, 1812, Hogan conveyed the property to Herman LeRoy, William Bayard and James McEvers, trustees, who leased it for several years to Joel Post, who finally purchased it in February, 1821, and lived there the remainder of his life. By 1860, Claremont was well known as a roadhouse. In 1873, when Riverside Park was established, the building was acquired by the City from the heirs of Joel Post and the City continued to operate it as an inn.

Claremont has been a restaurant for many years, originally a rather aristocratic place with a menu at very high prices. Recently we made a number of changes to popularize the place, reduce prices and bring it within the reach of moderate incomes. In its heyday it was open throughout the year. However, with the gradual decline of the surrounding neighborhood and the rerouting of most of the automobile traffic from Riverside Drive to the Henry Hudson Parkway, it has become less popular and it has only been financially possible to operate during the summer months. The gross income to the City for the last ten years has averaged slightly less than $11,000 per year.

The building requires extensive repairs. There are many violations of the sanitary and building codes, and the entire heating, plumbing and electrical systems must be replaced. Major reconstruction of walls, roof and floors must be provided, not to speak of complete repainting of exterior and interior. Its use as a restaurant must now be discontinued unless the City is willing to spend about $165,000 for rehabilitation. Unless this sum is provided in the 1949 Capital Budget, it will be impossible to reopen the restaurant for the 1949 season.

There are two alternatives. The first is to set the building aside for some other public purpose, such as a museum. It has no value to the park system and would have to be completely reconstructed even for museum use. I do not know what would be exhibited there and the upkeep of such an institution would be very expensive. This burden would inevitably fall upon the City in the end.

The second is to demolish Claremont and to reconstruct the area as an overlook sitting park closely associated with the Grant Monument. This will cost about $80,000 and is the action I recommend. A sketch indicating the treatment of the Claremont site and the memorial plaque indicating the history of Claremont is attached.

If we eliminate boarding up Claremont and attempting to convert it into a museum as wholly impractical, there remain the other two plans, namely rehabilitation or clearing of the site for a vista and sitting park. If the Board takes the nostalgic view and decides on a new lease of life for Claremont, we shall rebuild and reopen the restaurant. If the decision is to abandon the old building, we shall substitute a fitting addition to the Grant Monument and a new coign of vantage overlooking the Hudson.

Inasmuch as there is certain to be sentiment for the retention and repair of the building, I ask that the Board of Estimate consider the various possibilities and, by appropriate amendment to the proposed 1949 Capital Budget, provide the funds to carry out the policy decided upon.

Very truly yours,

/s/ ROBERT HOSES

Commissioner

OFFICE OF THE MAYOR CITY OF NEW YORK City Hall New York 7, N. Y.

FOR RELEASE: Monday, November 15, 1948.

The Mayor today announced plans of the Park Department for the erection of two equestrian statues of two Latin-American heroes, at the north and south ends of the Avenue of the Americas.

A statue of General Jose de San Martin, an heroic, bronze equestrian figure, similar in size to the General Sherman equestrian statue at 59th Street and Fifth Avenue, will be located on the east side of the Avenue of the Americas between Washington Place and West Fourth Street, in a formal landscaped setting.

The statue is a gift to the City of New York from the City of Buenos Aires and is an exact replica of an existing equestrian figure now standing in the heart of that city. It is being presented as a gesture of friendship reciprocating a gift some years ago by the people of North America to the City of Buenos Aires of a statue of George Washington now standing in front of the American Embassy in Buenos Aires, the Capital of Argentine.

General Jose de San Martin was a South American patriot, often compared with George Washington. He is referred to as "Argentina's Liberator", "Knight of the Andes" and "Protector of Peru". He was born February 25, 1778, at Yopeyn on the River Uruguay, educated in Madrid. Spain, for a military career, and served in the struggle against Napolean. In 1812, he offered his services to the Government of Buenos Aires in its war for independence. From 1817 to 1821, he raised, equipped and led armies to liberate Chile and Peru from the Spaniards. In 1824, he retired to Europe to live a peaceful private life until his death at Boulogne, France, on August 17, 1850.

The existing statue of Simon Bolivar now in Central Park on the West Drive opposite 83rd Street will be moved to a new location in that park at the north end of the Avenue of the Americas.

The memorial to Simon Bolivar was presented to the City of New York by the Government of Venezuela in 1921. It is a fifteen foot high heroic, equestrian statue on a high granite pedestal, embellished with bronze seals of Colombia, Ecuador, Peru and Bolivia. It has an overall height of twenty-three feet, nine inches; a width of ten feet, five inches; and a length of seventeen feet. In 1940, the monument was cleaned and repaired, and cleaned again in 1941, prior to the celebration of the Pan-American Congress.

In its new location, at the northeast corner of Central Park South and the Avenue of the Americas, it will be set in a broad plaza with the figure facing south towards the center of the Avenue.

The New York City Park Department's Sixth Annual Outdoor Chrysanthemum Display is presently coming into full bloom in the Borough of Manhattan at Central Park Conservatory Gardens, 104th Street and Fifth Avenue; the Plaza, Fifth Avenue and 59th Street; Bryant Park, 42nd Street and Avenue of the Americas; Bowling Green Park, Broadway and Whitehall Street; and the Park Avenue plots from 34th to 39th Streets; and at Cadman Plaza, Fulton and Tillary Streets, in Brooklyn. The display will last through the first week in November.

These permanent and colorful massed plantings, bursting into bloom when other flowers will soon be killed by frost, are the gift of Mrs. Albert D. Lasker of New York City to the Department of Parks, in memory of her mother, and are known as the Sara woodard Memorial Chrysanthemum Plantings. Mrs. Woodard, who died in New York City on January 8, 1940, was one of the founders of two public parks in Watertown, Wisconsin, and a member of the Park Association of New York City, Inc., as well as a member of the Outdoor Cleanliness Association.

Over 11,000 individual plantings have been used in this year's display. Massed solidly in beds in large-scale plantings, the flowers range in color from white through pale yellow to pink to the various shadings of red. The plants range in size from the small dwarf varieties to plants more than three feet in spread.

All the plants in New York City's display are seedlings and cuttings from the "Chicago" strain of winter-hardy chrysan-themums developed by Dr. E. J. Krause, Chairman of the Botany Department of the University of Chicago. Dr. Krause, stimulated by the desire to create a flower that could be used by the amateur gardener to extend the blooming period of a garden by as much as six weeks, began his experiments in 1934. He wanted to develop a chrysanthemum whose flower would withstand severe frost, and whose plants would survive sub-zero temperatures.

Each year, thousands of seedlings were grown, and, out of these, fifty to one hundred outstanding plants were selected for further testing. In the Fall of 1941, twelve varieties of these winter-hardy mums were selected and made available to the public through nursery-men and commercial growers, and new varieties have been developed in recent years.

In the Spring of 1942, Mrs. Lasker gave the seeds and funds to establish the original plantings at the Conservatory Gardens and at Bryant Park to the New York City Park Department. The additional plantings were made in the succeeding years. The Park Department has found this chrysanthemum one of the few flowers that will bear up under frost, and the only plant having a wide range of color that is suitable in this section of the country for mass fall plantings.

The Department of Parks announces that work has started in connection with the construction of a playground between Dean and Bergen Streets, east of Sixth Avenue, Brooklyn.

This new playground is located in a congested section of Brooklyn sorely lacking in recreational facilities of any kind. It lies in the center of a block publicized last year as being the worst block in Brooklyn because of the many serious cases of juvenile delinquency.

The present contract, awarded to Grifeth Construction Corporation, 401 Broadway, New York City, entails the construction of a comfort station including electrical, heating and plumbing work, basketball courts, volleyball courts and paddle tennis courts, drainage, lighting and water supply systems, and play areas equipped with play apparatus.

While the Park Department has title to the entire site, only the vacant area will be developed under this contract. The remaining area will be developed at a later date, after tenant relocation problems have been solved.

The Department of Parks announces the completion of work in connection with the construction and the opening to the public of a new playground adjacent to Marcy Houses on Myrtle Avenue between Nostrand and Marcy Avenues. Brooklyn.

This 3.2 acre playground replaces a much smaller play area, formerly located on Floyd Street between Park and Nostrand Avenues, within the housing site. It will provide recreational facilities for the tenants of the housing area and the residents of the surrounding congested neighborhood.

The New York City Housing Authority contributed $160,000 for the development of the playground, which, for the purpose of control, has been divided by fencing into six separate units, the borders of which have been landscaped with shade trees. The playground contains swings, slides, see-saws, a sand pit, wading pool, comfort station, shuffle-board courts, paddle tennis courts, basketball and volleyball courts, and handball courts. There is also a large bituminous surfaced flood-lighted area to provide for softball and other group games and which can be used for roller skating in the spring, fall and summer months, and which may be flooded during sub-freezing temperatures for ice skating.

Another new playground, bounded by Lafayette, Turnbull, Olmstead and Castle Hill Avenues in the Bronx, will be opened by the New York City Park Department on October 13, 1948.

Although only 2.6 acres in extent, this area, with a 200 feet frontage on Olmstead Avenue and 570 feet frontage on Turnbull and Lafayette Avenues, will provide for the present recreational needs of the children of the tenants of the adjacent Castle Hill Emergency Housing project, housing 2000 persons, and will be available for use by the children of the rapidly developing surrounding community previously lacking in essential recreational facilities.

The new playground contains five separate areas. Handball courts, horseshoe courts, shuffleboard courts, and playgrounds on the east end of the improvement are fenced off from each other for control purposes. The playground section is completely equipped with swings, slides, see-saws, sand pit and shower basin for hot weather. There is a small building housing comfort facilities and maintenance headquarters.

The westerly end of the improvement is developed for group games such as softball, basketball and volley ball, and surfaced with permanent materials to provide for roller skating.

The entire perimeter of the area is fenced and bordered with shade trees. Numerous benches have been provided for mothers and guardians of children.

With the addition of this new area, there are now 509 playgrounds in the expanded park system.

Park Commissioner Moses today gave his enthusiastic support to the Golden Jubilee Planting Program announced by the Park Association of New York City, Inc. The Commissioner said:

"Planting flowering trees and shrubs in parks and along parkways is a splendid way of commemorating fifty years of progress in the Greater City of New York. The park system itself is an excellent example of modern public services and facilities made available, on a large scale, by one central agency, to residents in all parts of the expanded city. The colorful new plantings will bring added pleasure to the millions of all ages who look to our parks and parkways for daily recreation, rest and play.

We are greatly indebted to the Park Association, which is sponsoring the program, and the public-spirited citizens and organizations who have already made their contributions. I urge that this program receive the wide general public support which it heartily deserves."

The Department of Parks announces that the owner of a plane and its aviator, who piloted the plane, towing an advertising banner over the Coney Island bathing area on September 6th, were found guilty of violation of Local Law 55, Section 435-16, of the Administrative Code (avigation for the purpose of advertising within the city limits).

These are the first convictions under this new law, adopted July 1, 1948, prohibiting planes and other aircraft from towing advertising banners or using sound amplifiers over the city.

Both William J. Swanson of New Haven, Connecticut, and Ellias Meaker of New York City, the pilot of the plane, pleaded guilty in the Municipal Term Court, on September 15th, and were fined ten dollars each. Magistrate Ploscowe was lenient because of the newness of the law, which was adopted for the protection of the citizens of this city.

The enforcement of this new ordinance will protect beach and other park patrons from indiscriminate and obtrusive cheap advertising, and will keep the pilots away from congested areas.

The playground is jointly operated by the Board of Education and the Park Department. During school hours, it is under the school authorities and at all other times, it is operated by the Park Department for neighborhood use. It will provide urgently needed recreational facilities for the school children and the new housing project, as well as the surrounding community.

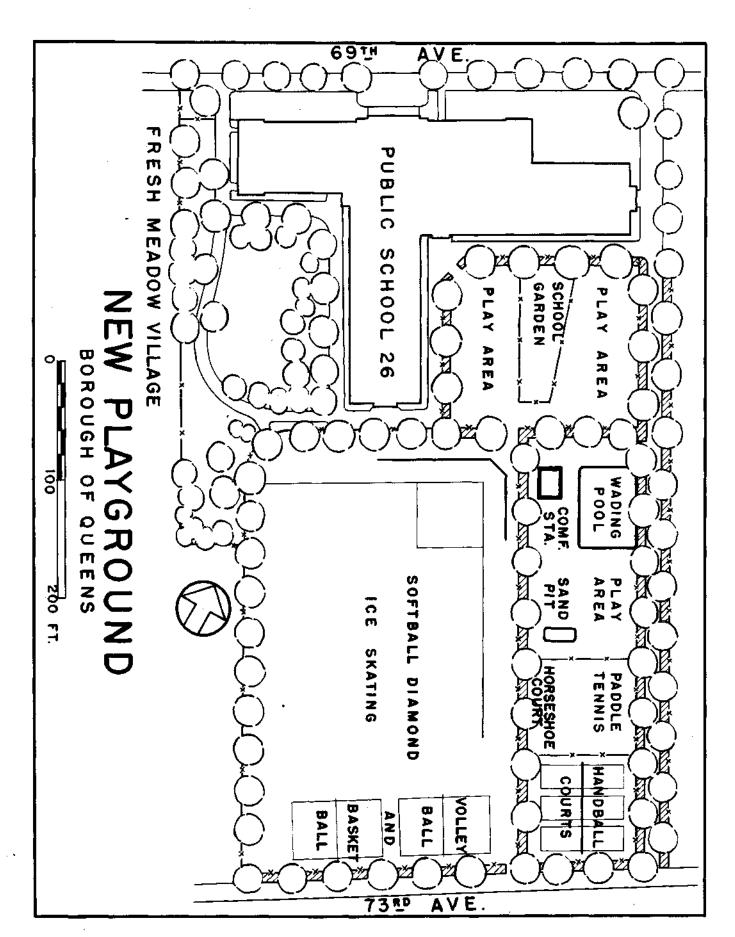

The playground contains two small children's kindergarten areas, a school farm garden and swings, slides and exercise units for larger children. There are also a sand pit, a wading pool, see-saws, slides, handball courts, paddle tennis courts, basketball courts, volley ball courts, horseshoe courts and shuffleboard courts. A large bituminous surfaced free play area has been provided for group games, softball and roller skating. In the winter when sub-freezing temperatures permit, it will be flooded for ice skating.

The entire development has been landscaped with shade trees, adequately provided with benches for mothers and guardians of children, and fenced in and partitioned off into four different units for control purposes.

With the addition of this new recreational development, there are now 507 playgrounds in the city park system.

The Department of Parks announces the beginning of work today on three contracts which provide for the continuation of the development of Great Kills Park. The lowlands comprising Great Kills Park have been raised by hydraulic fill and Department of Sanitation fill, and these contracts are the initial step in the development of the area as a park for use by the general public.

The three contracts provide for construction of drainage ditches, laying of water and supply mains, the erection of two buildings to serve as comfort stations and for concessions at separate points along the beach, entrance roadways and walks, and a thousand car parking field. These initial improvements are part of a comprehensive plan of further improvements to be done at a later date.

The low bidder for work in connection with the general development is Certified Construction Corp., at $610,520.00.

The low bidder on the installation of the electrical services and fixtures in connection with the two buildings is Fraser Electric Corp., at $11,740.00, and the low bidder for plumbing work on the beach buildings, water supply lines and leaching fields is Baylor Plumbing & Heating Co., Inc., at $33,679.00.

The completion of this work will permit the opening of Great Kills bathing beach for public use in the summer of 1949. Next year, portions of the boardwalk, foundations for the bath house and development of the beach proper will be undertaken to further complete the development. The development of this 1,275 acre waterfront park was started some years ago by grants of State lands and lands under water, Federal dredging and Works Project Administration work, and by Department of Sanitation controlled fill operations.

This week winds up a most successful season of dancing under the stars to the music of three return engagement artists who are appearing for a second time in this Name Band Dance series. During the summer months, 54 dances have been sponsored by the Consolidated Edison Company and conducted at various locations throughout the city parks by the Park Department. Over 250,000 New Yorkers of all ages have participated in this sublibarating pastime which has been a magnetizing force in the Park Department's bot weather recreation program.

On Tuesday, September 7th, Ray Eberle and his orchestra will appear at Victory Field, Woodhaven Boulevard and Myrtle Avenue, Queens. Eberle is currently rated as an outstanding prospect for "Band of the Year" honors by leading music critics. His vibrant array of instrumentalists believes in giving the dancers what they want, and their formula has scored success wherever the orchestra has appeared. His name is synonymous with top dancing and vocalizing.

One of the leading college band favorites in the nation, Sam Donahue, the All American Saxaphone Sensation, and his orchestra are looked upon as the ideal campus attraction because of its youth, vitality, and drive. One reason the band has done so well must be credited to the fine Capitol recordings they have made. "Melancholy Baby" and "A Rainy Night in Rio" led the New York disc jockey lists for weeks. Local fans will have a chance to judge for themselves when Donahue leads his crew at Poe Park, 192nd Street and Grand Concourse, Bronx, on Wednesday, September 8th.

For the last two dances of the season, Chuck Foster and his brilliant young band will provide the musical accompaniment. His name is well known among Name Bands from coast to coast, and since his earlier debut this season dancers have been calling for a repeat performance. He will comply with their requests on Thursday, September 9th, at the Mall in Central Park, 72nd Street and Center Drive, and on Friday, September 10th, at Prospect Park Dance Area, 11th Street and Prospect Park West, Brooklyn, when he and the boys furnish the rhythms for the grand finals of our dancing New York program.

five days capacity operation of the city parks. While many New Yorkers were fortunate enough to be out of the city during the hot spell, millions forced to stay turned to the park facilities. Due to the unbearable heat, business houses closed early each day of the heat wave. Thus crowds of city residents, comparable only to those expected at weekend and holiday occasions, headed for the beaches and pools. Many others were satisfied to sit in the shady areas of the larger parks.

Park Department attendance statistics indicate the heavy usage of park facilities. These figures reveal that daily average of 1,251,000 persons used the city beaches during the five days or a total of 6,255,000 persons. These tremendous crowds made necessary extended hours of operation and the assignment of supplemental maintenance crews to clean up the beaches. For example, at Coney Island where the normal maintenance crew numbers 225, it was necessary to assign an additional emergency force of 75 employees. This cleanup work, usually done after closing hours or in the early morning, was handicapped by those who remained at the beach throughout the night. The lifeguards were called upon to make 1,403 rescues because of the abnormally large attendance.

The seventeen municipal pools operated by the Park Department were taxed with capacity crowds. These pools, located mainly in congested areas, provided relief for those unable to go far from their homes. A daily average of 72,600 persons or a total of 363,000 used these facilities during the free and paid periods of the five days.

Concession operators at all city beaches, pools, and parks report unprecedented demands for cool drinks, ice cream, and frankfurters. An indication of this demand is reflected in the operation statement for Jacob Riis Park, Queens, where nearly 50,000 franks, 950 gallons of ice cream and 214,000 drinks, were consumed during the five days.

For the youngsters, the neighborhood wading pools and sprinkler systems provided cooling relief. An average of 245,000 youngsters took daily advantage of the 202 wading pools of the park system. These wading pools were kept open from 9 A.M. until 8 P.M. each day.

In addition to the regular summer facilities of the department, all parks were thrown open and the midnight closing regulation was suspended for the duration of the heat wave. Lawn areas were crowded with many persons who found sleeping indoors impossible. It is estimated 155,000 persons slept outdoors in city parks during the hot spell.

A direct result of the heat wave was the cancellation of the Annual Lifeguard Tournament conducted each year to determine the outstanding individual Lifeguard and lifeguard team of the six beaches in the municipal park system. The tournament, scheduled to be held at Rockaway, Monday, August 30th, was cancelled because all lifeguards were required to be on duty.

Another effect of the extreme heat was the damage to the trees and lawn areas of the municipal parks. Due to the drought and heat, leaves of many trees were burnt. On such species as the Poplars, Plane and Norway Maples, leaves are falling long before the normal time. Grass areas, particularly on the parkways where watering was impossible, turned brown and will require much attention to restore them to their normal healthy green condition.

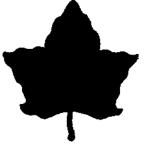

Attendance at golf courses, tennis courts, baseball fields, and dancing areas, fell off sharply during the entire period of the heat wave.

The last nine performances this season, of the "Marionette Circus" will be presented by the Department of Parks Marionette Troupe at neighborhood Park playgrounds in Manhattan this week.

The stream-lined trailer theatre has been welcomed by hordes of New York City youngsters during its tour of the five boroughs these past eleven weeks. The "Marionette Circus", this summer's presentation, has become the most popular entertainment for the younger set. Even the smallest fry are able to follow the action of the play, for dialogue has been omitted, giving the spot light to the antics of the miniature performers. Specially selected recordings of music give emphasis to the maneuvers on stage. The best gauge of the favor that the show has won, is the reaction of the young audiences as they watch a performance. Adult appreciation is enhanced as they catch enthusiasm from the children. So smooth is the manipulation by the members of the troupe, it is small wonder that observers forget the actors are only puppets.

The Department of Parks of New York City has found a new fungus disease attacking "London Plane" street trees in the Boroughs of Brooklyn, Manhattan and Richmond. All trees found infected have been removed and burned.

Last year, departmental horticulturists noticed Plane trees dying in St. Nicholas Terrace, Manhattan. Recognizing that the symptoms were not those of any known disease, the department's Director of Horticulture, Mr. David Schweizer, asked Dr. P. P. Pirone, Plant Pathologist of The New York Botanical Garden for assistance in investigating the cause.

Dr. Pirone reports that this infection is caused by a fungus tentatively identified as belonging to the genus, Dothiorella. Other members of this genus are known to attack a wide variety of trees, but the species infecting the London Planes appears to be different from any previously described.

As the cause of infection has only now been discovered, the temporary method of control is to remove and burn all trees known to be affected by the disease.

The Park Department considers the London Plane to be one of the most useful of all city trees. It is an excellent shade tree and thrives under the difficult conditions of city living. It resists smoke and gas and tramping of the soil, and will stand heavy pruning. If new earth is filled high around the trunk, the tree sends out adventitious roots closer to the surface of the ground. In short, it has the will to survive, and, unlike the arboreal primadonnas, it can take abuse.

The Park Department estimates that over 47,000 of the 2,240,000 trees growing in New York park lands, playgrounds and along city streets are London Plane trees. There are also 12,000 young Plane trees growing in the Park Department's nurseries on Rikers Island.

Eighteen of these young trees were used by Dr. Pirone in the experiments by which he isolated the fungus which causes the new disease. Transplanted to the experimental plot at The New York Botanical Garden by the Park Department, several were inoculated with fungus grown from the spores taken from the bark of infected trees. Within 30 days, they showed the same symptoms as diseased trees discovered by Park Department men-wilting leaves and deeply ridged cankers of the bark and wood. In 30 days, the infection had spread more than twelve inches above and below the point of inoculation. This is considered rapid growth for a fungus parasite of trees.

It is not yet known how the new fungus, Dothiorella, is spread. But the prompt attention of the Park Department and the further assistance of Dr. Pirone is expected to prevent danger of any widespread infection.

"Calling all Dancers for some last minute dancing under the stars to three of America's most successful dance bands."

This series of 54 Name Band Dances which is sponsored by the Consolidated Edison Company and conducted by the Department of Parks has greatly enlivened several locations throughout the city. Over 175,000 New Yorkers have attended these evening dances which are one of the most popular features of the Park Department's summer recreation program, and they agree that no more amiable pastime can be found in sultry summer weather than to dance in the cool of the evening.

This week, Boyd Raeburn, who needs no introduction to local dancers, and his band will play for the Monday evening dance, August 23rd, at Colonial Park, 146th Street and Bradhurst Avenue.

One of the most recent bandleaders to hit the top in the musical world is Johnny Long, who has become Young America's favorite. He has scored hits in practically every large city from coast to coast while playing for numerous college proms and ballroom affairs. Among his best known recordings are "Shanty Town", "How Are Things in Glocca Morra" and "Paradise". Johnny

It's fun to be fooled, and children especially subscribe to that statement, which accounts for the tremendous success of Peter Pan's Magic Shows for the youngsters of New York City. Among his most mystifying tricks are the headless illusion and the snake trick, but the one he can never leave out of his repertoire is producing a rabbit. MANHATTAN AND BROOKLYN INVITED TO JOIN IN "THE BASKET" SQUARE DANCE TO BE FEATURED THIS COMING WEEK, IN SERIES SPONSORED BY PEPSI-COLA COMPANY UNDER THE AUSPICES OF DEPARTMENT OF PARKS

Manhattan and Brooklyn are invited to join in "The Basket", a real old southern square dance originating in the Appalachian Mountains, which is to be featured during this coming week, llth week in the series of free outdoor square dances held in the three New York City Parks each week through the courtesy of Pepsi-Cola Company as a public service, under the auspices of the Department of Parks. In "The Basket" Square Dance, each couple encircles arms with the adjoining couple until all those participating in the dance form one great "basket". The entire group then revolves with increasing momentum until the climax which is signaled by the call "Flap like Thunder".

The dances take place each Monday night at Riverside Drive and 103rd Street (lower level), Tuesday nights on Central Park Mall (at 72nd Street), and Wednesday nights at Prospect Park West and 11th Street, Brooklyn. All dances are held from 8:30 to 11:00 P.M.

Ed Durlacher calls the dances with music by the Top Hands.

This is the ninth big week of Name Band Dancing for New Yorkers sponsored by Consolidated Edison Company and conducted by the Department of Parks. Artists from various sections of the country have appeared during the past two months and have attracted large numbers of people.

This week Hal McIntyre, one of the brightest stars on the musical horizon, and his orchestra will call rhythmical feet to attention. This young and personable saxophonist is the only bandleader of major standing to have gone overseas for the USO to entertain the fighting GI's on the battlefronts. His band was a thrilling success. It was the first big-time American civilian dance or chestra to play for our World War II service-men and was welcomed everywhere. Hal soon found out that a bandleader's best friend is his records and he certainly lost no time in getting on the recording Hit Parade. Among the galaxy of popular recordings, McIntyre shines with his "Sentimental Journey", "Donkey Serenade" and "The Man Who Paints the Rainbow". He and his orchestra will play on Monday, August 16th, at Williamsbridge Oval, East 208th Street and Bainbridge Avenue, Bronx; on Tuesday, August 17th, at Jackson Heights Playground, 84th Street and 25th-30th Avenues, Queens, and on Wednesday, August 18th at Poe Park, 192nd Street and Grand Concourse, Bronx.

There's a second treat in store for Name Band Dancers this week. The clarinet sensation Jerry Wald and his Orchestra will play for Manhattanites on Thursday, August 19th on the Mall, Central Park, 72nd Street and Center Drive, Manhattan, and for Brooklynites on Friday, August 20th, at Prospect Park Dance Area, 11th Street and Prospect Park West.

Consolidated Edison Company and the Park Department extend a hearty invitation to all New Yorkers for fun and frolic while dancing under the stars. Don't forget your date at 8:30 P.M. when all dances start.

Staten Island youngsters will have their last opportunities to see the "Marionette Circus" this season. The Department of Parks Marionette Troupe will give two performances in Staten Island on Monday. The troupe will begin a two week tour of Manhattan neighborhood Park playgrounds on Tuesday.

If "Oscars" were awarded for outstanding Marionette shows, this presentation would be sure to win one. Designed solely for the entertainment of youngsters unable to leave the city during the summer, the Marionette Circus, during the past nine weeks, has also delighted the parents. Complete with clowns and acrobats performing to strains of calliope music, plus a baker's dozen of other characters, the show lacks nothing but the sawdust and peanuts of a real big top extravaganza.

Dancing on the green, a custom in vogue in Little Old New York, is also a traditional event for children in Department of Parks playgrounds in Brooklyn. On Saturday, August 14th at 2:30 P.M., 1,000 children will dance in the 33rd Annual Children's Dance Festival on Long Meadow, Prospect Park, in commemoration of New York City's Golden Jubilee. One of the seven numbers on the program will be a dance influenced by the Gay Nineties, and partisan Brooklynites will applaud another number--an interpretation of the dancing of some of the early settlers of an important part of New York City - Breucklen.

It is expected that an audience of from ten to fifteen thousand spectators, including parents and friends of the dancers, will witness the colorful pageant.

Preparations for the festival have been underway for the past several weeks, under the supervision of the Park Department recreation staff. The young dancers have been actively engaged in rehearsing, and sewing their costumes and making head-dresses or other accessories. Mothers and older sisters, many of whom participated in previous festivals, have given their time and assistance in order that traditional perfection standards may be upheld.

A grand processional, with all dance groups participating, will open the program, and the children will form a giant horse-shoe within which the dances will be performed. Dancers and audience will then join in the singing of the Star Spangled Banner.

The seven dances to be performed are "Katy Will You Dance With Me?", an original dance with a 'boy meets girl' theme, performed by the children from the Bushwick and Stuyvesant sections of Brooklyn. Bay Ridge youngsters will present "Girls in Calico", a square dance with a touch of the polka, all to a modern "Dutch Couples from Breucklen" is an interpretation of the dancing of early settlers in Brooklyn by the Flatbush playgrounds. The Coney Island and Bensonhurst contribution, "High Steppers" is an original dance with a dash of boomps-a-daisy in Rockette "Gypsies Gay", a character dance, features the girls from Brownsville and East New York. Youngsters from the Borough Hall and the Red Hook communities combine their talents in "Little Old New York". The finishing touch to the pageant will be "Bonnie Lassies", a Scotch medley combining steps from authentic four hand reels and the sword dances, by Greenpoint and Williamsburg dancers.

The children will close the program by singing "God Bless America", and then parade off the meadow to the Picnic Grounds, where their annual picnic will be held.

The general public is invited to be guests of the Department of Parks this Saturday to view the Children's Annual Dance Festival. Long Meadow is easily reached from the Grand Army Plaza Entrance at Union Street, or through the Third Street Entrance to the park.

Teeing off at 9 A.M. on Saturday will be Peter De Caprio of Mosholu Golf Course, last year's City-wide Champion, against Jack Valentine of Split Rock. Last weekend at Clearview. De Caprio defeated Joseph O'Connor of Split Rock, 1 up, the match going 20 holes. Valentine downed Julius Vogt of Forest Park, 2 up. The other match on Saturday morning will be John Amana against James Manzone, both of Mosholu. They eliminated stiff competition in their quarter-final rounds--Amana finishing 2 up over George Baskiel of Forest Park, and Manzone 1 up over Gilbert Smith of Silver Lake. The semi-finalists will play 36 holes of match play, 18 in the morning, and the second round starting at about 1:00 P.M. The Department of Parks and Consolidated Edison Company again hail dancing New Yorkers for a gala week of fun and relaxation in the City's Parks. Dancing under the stars is one of the most popular types of cool, summer entertainment, accompanied by some of America's most acclaimed bands. During July, thousands of dancers and spectators were attracted each evening.

This week Lewis Russell will make Manhattanites hop and quick-step on Monday, August 9th, when his well known orchestra will provide the music at Colonial Park, 146th Street and Bradhurst Avenue. Manhattan.

Charlie Peterson, and his "Smooth Rhythms" Orchestra, will provide music for dancing on Tuesday, August 10th, at Victory Field, Woodhaven Boulevard and Myrtle Avenue, Queens. Although a comparatively young organization, he is well known throughout the eastern part of the United States for his successful engagements at the Hotel New Yorker, Hotel Pennsylvania, recordings, country clubs and leading social affairs.

On Wednesday evening, the Bronx dancing public will hear a new "Name Band" Orchestra in this summer's series of 54 Name Band Dances. Tommy Ryan and his up and coming young dance combination will make their debut under the sponsorship of the Consolidated Edison Company. He will provide swing and sway rhythms at Poe Park, 192nd Street and Grand Concourse, Bronx.

Shorty Sherock, an old favorite among Name Band Dancers will return as featured artist for the remaining two dances. On Thursday, August 12th, he and his Orchestra will re-appear on the Mall, Central Park, 72nd Street and Center Drive, Manhattan; and on Friday, August 13th, at Prospect Park Dance Area, 11th Street and Prospect Park West, Brooklyn.

All dances start at 8:30 P.M. A cordial invitation is extended to all by Consolidated Edison and the Park Department, whether you come to dance or to watch and listen.

SUMMER PROGRAM OF PARK ACTIVITIES

Attendance figures at Park Department facilities indicate that New Yorkers are making up the hours of outdoor recoreation they lost during the rainy spring weather.

Beaches and pools are receiving heavy usage. The Learn-to-Swim Campaign for children is under way. Of 5,000 beginner candidates, those who pass the test for junior swimmers this week will participate in the intermediate lessons, consolidating their earlier instruction as well as learning a simple dive, and the backstroke technique. Competitive swimming events in which 3,700 boys and girls participated were concluded Saturday, July 24th, when, before a near capacity audience, the City-wide Boys' Swimming Championships were conducted at Sunset Park Pool in Brooklyn. The program included events for novices, and Junior and Senior Metropolitan A.A.U. Championships. The previous Saturday, July 17th, 1,500 spectators witnessed similar championship contests for girls at Flushing Meadow Park Amphitheatre Pool.

Less active competitive activities are offered in a program sponsored by the New York Community Trust. 9,000 boys and girls from 12 through 17 years of age are now engaged in Jack, Checker, and Table Tennis Tournaments in local playgrounds. City-wide finals in all three competitions will be held in late August or early September, to determine champions in each class.

A very important function of the Park Department's program for the youth of New York City is the operation of 508 neighborhood playgrounds throughout the five boroughs. Children not vacationing at camp or in the country may engage in a full-time program of recreational activity which is organized and supervised by a trained staff of year round playground directors, augmented by seasonal workers to provide for a fuller and wider use of the facilities. The recreational program of the Park Department presents a summer activity schedule of great variety capable of meeting the leisure time requirements of the large groups of children attending each playground. The hours of operation of all playgrounds are until 9 P.M. each evening, and the floodlighted areas are open until 10 P.M. for the convenience of adults who have no time for play during daylight hours.

Musical concerts in parks attract greater interest each season. The City Amateur Symphony series recently concluded, and the Naumberg Memorial series at the Mall, of which one remains to be played on Labor Day, have drawn thousands of listeners every evening. The popular Guggenheim Memorial Concerts, presented by the Goldman Band, will continue each Sunday, Monday, Wednesday, and Friday evening at the Mall in Central Park, and at the Prospect Park Music Grove each Thursday and Saturday evening until August 15th.

Social dancing under the stars, the ever-popular Name Band Dances sponsored by the Consolidated Edison Company, has a universal appeal for old and young alike, and the first twenty-one dances, featuring music by nationally famous dance bands, such as Ray Anthony, Randy Brooks, Boyd Raeburn, Larry Clinton, Tony Pastor, Don Redman and Les Elgart, have attracted an attendance of 120,000 dancers and spectators. These series will continue each weekday evening, Monday through Friday, until September 10th, and will include the Harvest Dance elimination contests scheduled from August 17th to the 24th, with the city-wide finals being held at the Mall on Thursday, September 2nd. Blue Barron and his orchestra will appear on the Name Band program in the near future.

Square dance sessions under Pepsi-Gola Company's sponsorship have imparted new life and spirit into this old, and purely American form of community dancing. Thousands of fans, many of whom are family groups, attend the Monday evening dances at Riverside Drive and 105th Street, the Tuesday evening sessions at the Mall, or the Wednesday night periods at Prospect Park. These dances will extend through September 15th. Square dances are also held at the Jacob Riis Park Boardwalk on Wednesday evenings and will continue through August 25th. Seventeen other locations throughout the city have regularly scheduled evenings of dancing to recorded music.

The younger generation is not neglected in the dance picture. Brooklyn and Richmond youngsters are in the midst of preparations for their annual dance festivals to be held at Prospect Park and Clove Lakes Park on August 14th and 21st, respectively. Manhattan, Bronx, and Queens festivals were presented in June.

Softball, tennis and golf tournaments, attracting 20,000 entries, comprised of men, women and junior boy sports enthusiasts, are well underway. Of 1,020 teams in the softball competition for junior boys, 184 remain in the running for the city-wide championship. The Jacob Riis Park Softball Tournament is paired off into two leagues with sixteen teams battling for places in the championship games to be played on Labor Day weekend. Borough championship tennis matches started last Sunday, and the male golf team championships were played off on August 1st at Forest Park Golf Course. The final rounds of the Municipal golf tournament began at Clearview Golf Course last Sunday.

The Kiwanis Clubs of Queens have sponsored track and field events, and the next meet, with sixteen events on the program, is scheduled for today, August 8th, at 2 P.M., at Astoria Park in Queens.

Two special features of the summer program are the perenially popular magic shows by Peter Pan, and the Marionette Trailer Theatre presentations. With sixty-five past performances as a criterion, there is no doubt that this summer's show, "The Marionette Circus", is a smash hit with New York City's small fry. Both shows are currently touring neighborhood park playgrounds, and, by the end of the summer, all sections of the city will have had an opportunity to see both entertainments.

Rounding out the musical program will be concerts by the Equitable Life Assurance Society's Choral Group on Wednesday evenings at 8:30 P.M., September 1st and 15th, at Forest Park in Queens.

These are the highlights on the recreational program of the Department of Parks which is conducted for the enjoyment of the public.

The Department of Parks announces the start of work in connection with the reconstruction of roofs of Wing A and towers of Wing C in the Metropolitan Museum of Art at 82nd Street and Fifth Avenue, in Central Park, Manhattan.

The work provides for the reconstruction of roofs over sections of two wings of the Museum. The existing roofs are over sixty-five years old and consist of light iron trusses and steel bars supporting plates of glass. The trusses and bars are badly corroded and have deteriorated to such an extent that the roofs are in danger of collapse. At present, there is considerable damage through leakage to interior walls and ceilings and to the electrical lighting system, resulting in many interruptions in public service and costly maintenance.

The work entails the removal of existing roofs, the construction of new roofs consisting of steel trusses with corrugated glass skylights, new ceilings, stairways, fireproof doors and painting.

This work is part of a program of the rehabilitation of the Museum Buildings which will be carried on in stages as funds for this purpose are appropriated by the City.
