

Hate or discrimination on the basis of race, religion, national origin, or other characteristics is not tolerated in NYC.

If you or someone you know has been physically harassed or assaulted because of your identity—including your race, ethnicity, or religion—please call 911.

NYPD officers will not ask about the immigration status of anyone seeking help and language assistance is available. Officers can also help connect individuals to victim support services available to them.

You can also contact a Crime Victim Advocate to help deal with the emotional, physical, and financial aftermath of a crime, and explore other options. Call the All Crimes Hotline at 1-866-689-HELP (4357) TDD: 866-604-5350.

If you or someone you know has been harassed or discriminated against by a business, employer, or landlord because of your identity please call NYC Commission on Human Rights at 212-416-0197.

You are protected against discrimination in housing, at work, and in public places based on your race, religion, national origin, age, immigration status, disability, or other protected classes under the NYC Human Rights Law, enforced by the NYC Commission on Human Rights. Violators may be required to pay penalties and/or damages to victims. To request training, including Bystander Intervention, call 212-416-0197 or visit nyc.gov/humanrights.

Do you need immigration legal assistance?

If you are the survivor of certain serious crimes (including labor or sex trafficking), you may be eligible for certain types of immigration relief. For free and safe immigration legal help, regardless of your immigration status, call the City's immigration legal hotline at 1-800-354-0365, Monday through Friday, 9am to 6pm.

Are you seeking mental health support?

If you or a loved one are feeling overwhelmed or stressed, NYC 988 can help. NYC 988 is a free, confidential helpline for mental health support available 24 hours a day, 7 days a week, in over 200 languages. To speak to a counselor call or text 988 or chat online at 988lifeline.org/chat.
