DELTA AIR LINES SUPPORTS NEW YORK CITY HURRICANE RELIEF EFFORTS

Delta Air Lines Provided In-Kind Support including Food, Water, and Blankets to Aid the New York City's Immediate Relief Efforts after Hurricane Sandy

The Mayor's Fund to Advance New York City announced today that Delta Air Lines has donated food, water, blankets and kits to support New York City's relief efforts related to Hurricane Sandy. Delta has provided the City with 24,000 food items, 22,000 bottles of water, 10,000 amenity kits, and 7,000 Delta inflight blankets which have been distributed at the City's food and relief centers.

"Delta Air Lines has shown a true commitment to helping New Yorkers in this time of need," said Megan Sheekey, President of the Mayor's Fund to Advance New York City. "With the support of great corporate partners like Delta, the Mayor's Fund is able to provide immediate relief supplies directly to the families affected by the hurricane."

"With over 7,000 New York-based employees we are a part of the city, the communities and the neighborhoods that were affected by this devastating hurricane," said Gail Grimmett, Delta's Senior Vice President, New York. "Backed by the support of our 80,000 Delta employees worldwide, we are rallying to make a difference and to help rebuild the communities where we live and serve."

The Mayor's Fund is accepting financial donations from organizations and individuals to support hurricane relief efforts. To date, the Mayor's Fund has raised over $37 million to aid the City's recovery and restoration projects. One hundred percent of contributions are being dispersed to relief efforts. The City is currently identifying immediate aid needs, including food, water and hygiene supplies, as well as long-term relief and recovery efforts. There are four easy ways to contribute:
